College of Liberal Arts

School of Arts and Communication

School of History, Philosophy, and Religion

School of Public Policy

School of Writing, Literature, and Film

School of Language, Culture, and Society

School of Psychological Science
Frank Bernieri

School of Psychological Sciences
Welcome to Dr. Frank Bernieri's Social Interaction Lab

For more information go to:

http://bisplab.weebly.com/ and http://liberalarts.oregonstate.edu/users/frank-bernieri

Oregon State University
School of Psychological Science
Reed Lodge
2950 SW Jefferson Way
Corvallis, OR 97331
Christina Leon

School of Writing, Literature and Film
Megan Ward

School of Writing, Literature and Film
Evan Gottlieb

School of Writing, Literature and Film
Literary & Historical Areas of Specialization:
Periods: the Enlightenment, the Eighteenth Century, the Romantic Era (i.e. 1700-1830)
Genres: Poetry, Novels, Non-Fiction
Major Authors: Austen, Barbauld, Byron, Coleridge, Defoe, Hume, Keats, Scott, Shelley, Smith, Smollett, Wordsworth

Critical & Theoretical Areas of Specialization:
Continental Philosophy, Globalization Studies, Post-humanism, Post-structuralism

Current Books-in-Progress
Romantic Realities: British Romanticism and Speculative Realism (for Edinburgh University Press)
Engagements with Contemporary Literary and Critical Theory (for Routledge)
Mehra Shirazi

School of Language, Culture and Society
Mehra Shirazi, PhD

Assistant Professor
264 Waldo Hall
Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies
School of Language, Culture, and Society
Mehra.shirazi@oregonstate.edu

• Holds a Ph.D. in Public Health Promotion and Education.
• Research explores health disparities through a lens of social justice with particular regard to class, race, gender, immigration, and environment, with an emphasis on immigrant and refugee women’s health using a community based participatory approach.
Kryn Freehling-Burton

School of Language, Culture and Society
Kryn Freehling-Burton, M.A.I.S.

Senior Instructor
Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies
School of Language, Culture, and Society
kryn.freehling-burton@oregonstate.edu

- Current and past research includes qualitative, textual, and creative methodologies in these areas
  - Women in film and television
  - Sexuality and Reproductive Health
  - Feminist theology and spiritual practice
  - Birth in the U.S. Women’s Health Movement
  - Activist Theatre
  - Mothers in society and media
Addition Research Projects in WGSS

- Social Media and activism
- Women in STEM at OSU
- Masculinity, fashion, and mental health in the early 20th century
- LGBTQ communities
  - On campus
  - In historic records
- Transnational adoption
- Latin@s, immigration, and labor
- Menstruation
- Southern Baptist women in church leadership
- Race and gender in popular culture
Adam Schwartz

School of Language, Culture, and Society
Undergrad courses in 2015

- ANTH 350: Language, Culture & Society
- SPAN 112, 113: First-year Spanish
- SPAN 456: Spanish in the US
- WLC/ES 499: Language, Race & Racism in the US

Research interests include:

- Spanish language education
- “Foreign”/second language learning in the US
- Spanish in the US
- Language and identity
- Racism and white privilege
- Diversity and multicultural education
- Language and culture in education
- Language attitudes and ideologies
Nabil Boudraa

School of Language, Culture and Society
NABIL BOUDRAA

Associate Professor of French

220 Kidder Hall, 737-3938 nabil.boudraa@oregonstate.edu
Ben Mutschler

School of History,
Philosophy and Religion
OSU Sesquicentennial Project: “Untold History of OSU” (HST 407)

Internships exhibits

Student Projects

Jenna Proctor
UHC Honors student

Major Happenings in 2018!
Rob Figueroa

School of History, Philosophy and Religion
I work in an engaged philosophical approach studying critical connections between culture, justice, and environmental values.

Courses:

- Ethics (PHL 205) (Spring 2015)
- 19th Century Philosophy (PHL 303) (Spring 2015)
- World Views and Environmental Values (PHL 434-HONORS) (Fall 2015)
- Ethics of Diversity (PHL 280)

Robert Figueroa

School of History, Philosophy, and Religion & Engaged Scholar in Residence, Center for Latin@ Studies and Engagement Oregon State University

200-G Gilkey Hall

Robert.figueroa@oregonstate.edu
Flo Leibowitz

School of History, Philosophy and Religion
Flo Leibowitz

Philosophy of the Arts

- Art in public spaces
- Museum ethics/cultural property
- Scientific representation and illustration

fleibowitz@oregonstate.edu  Mlm 302B
Chris Nichols

School of History, Philosophy and Religion
Currently Advising/Recent Theses on:
U.S.-Japan International Law; Gender, Economics, & U.S-Latin American Relations (ca. 1900); Diplomacy of the U.S. Civil War; National Building in Early Cold War

U-D Classes Regularly Taught:
- HST 407: U.S. & the Modern World (5-credit, research course)
- HST 464/564: Am. Diplomatic History/U.S. & the World (1770s-1890s)
- New class HST 466: Religion & U.S. Foreign Relations (Spring 2015!)
Barbara Muraca, Ph.D.
Environmental & Social Philosophy
Sustainability theory, degrowth, political ecology

Class currently offered for the Honors College:
PHL 443 Worldviews and Environmental Values

- Human societies are characterized by a specific relation to nature.
- The way in which this relation is framed in narrative, policies, norms, and habits, reveals the way in which a society understands itself.
- We explore and compare different models of societal relations to nature and discuss the different forms of environmentalism that stem from them.
- We examine leading ideas such as Wilderness, Sustainable Development, the Green Economy, and the debate revolving around the economic valuation of ecosystem services. We also engage with non-Western perspectives, such as the model of an Ecological Civilization that has turned into a main political goal in China, the vision of Radical Ecological Democracy developed by Indian environmental activists, the concept of Buen Vivir (Living Well) that indigenous people from Latin America have proposed as an alternative to the Western model of development, and ecofeminist perspectives from different parts of the world.
- We work in groups during class and have poster sessions. Students are encouraged to bring own materials for the discussion.

barbara.muraca@oregonstate.edu
Lori Cramer

School of Public Policy
Building resilient coastal communities: A social assessment of mobile technology for tsunami evacuation planning

Lori Cramer, Ph.D.
Sociology Program, School of Public Policy
307 Fairbanks Hall
Oregon State University
Corvallis, OR 97331
Phone: 541-737-5382
Email: lcramer@oregonstate.edu
Co-PIs: Dan Cox and Haizhong Wang, OSU
Joan Gross

Professor of Anthropology
My research interests: Cultural studies (especially food and/or language) in the Americas, Europe and North Africa

Some past undergraduate theses I’ve directed:

- The Kalispel Tribe of Indian’s Contemporary Usage of Traditional Foodways. Alex Hilborn
- Foodways of an Ecuadorian Comuna. Christina Sudduth
- The Last Colony: Music and Modern Identity in Puerto Rico. Brin Macdonald
- Perspectives from Cantabria: A Look at the Social Construction of the Immigrant Other in Spain. Isadora B. Norman
Dan Faltesek

School of Arts and Communication

New Media Communications
Digital Communication Arts Major

New Media
What do we do?

• Media and Society
  – Social Research
  – Diffusion of Innovation
  – Interface Studies

• Media Management
  – Industry Studies
  – Entrepreneurship

• Media Production
  – Media Making, especially video
What do I do?

• Social Media
  – Multiple areas

• Big Data
  – Really pretty small data by natural science standards

• Mobile Media, Games, Interfaces, Logistical Media
Get in Touch

• Dan Faltesek –
daniel.faltesek @ oregonstate.edu
• Or facebook.com/
dan.faltesek@danfaltesek
• See also, Bill Loges.
Lee Ann Garrison

School of Arts and Communication